WHAT IS IT?

virtualvolunteer.org is an easy to use Red Cross and Red Crescent web application that helps people migrating access reliable and practical information and support wherever they are.

Universally accessible with any connected device, virtualvolunteer.org merges the technological expertise of IBM with decades of Red Cross and Red Crescent experience delivering humanitarian aid to those most in need.

WHO IS IT FOR?

People migrating or considering migrating need trustworthy information to make decisions, stay healthy and get the help they need. virtualvolunteer.org puts crucial, reliable information at people's fingertips and links them to services on the ground.

The application also provides resources for Red Cross and Red Crescent volunteers and staff, so that they can channel the latest information and needed support to women, children and men in need.

WHERE IS IT?

virtualvolunteer.org is currently being piloted in Greece and will soon be adapted for people migrating in Turkey, Italy and Sweden. It will later expand to other countries in Europe, Africa and Asia where people are migrating in search of refuge, safety and hope.

The presence of National Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies in nearly every country in the world makes it easy to tailor the web application to address varying humanitarian situations.

HOW TO ENGAGE?

Partners can make vital contributions by sharing and updating information, linking existing applications and technologies and by offering expertise and resources to ensure the platform is as useful and practical as possible to migrants in need.

“Information saves lives. People need reliable information across the migration journey to make decisions and protect themselves and their families.”
